

Welding Curtain

You can use Techjack welding curtains in vertical or horizontal position and you can easily cover any machinery or equipment with them. You can remove Techjack welding curtains when the operation is over, you can use them in another section or in any place where necessary. As long as Techjack welding curtains are used the right way, you can ensure life and property security and eliminate the possibility of fire that can result from welding.

Usage

- To cover machinery and equipment,
- To surround the working area,
- To be laid on the floor of the working area,
- To ensure life and property security of the personnel working below while welding is being performed above.

